

Macro (a closer look at the past week)

On Monday Mike ran the season's first 'with model' workshop with Rebecca - demonstrating Film Noir lighting techniques. In the past these events have been very popular as they provide relatively inexpensive access to an experienced model alongside Mike's lighting expertise. Surprisingly there were fewer photographers this week but the upside being that each photographer had more dedicated time with the model. Thank you to Mike and Rebecca (who is based locally). Thanks to Andy Kernan and Mike for sharing some of their images.

On Wednesday we had an excellent Zoom talk by Hertfordshire-based Cat Humphries on theatre photography. She talked about her early introduction to documenting performers at Edinburgh Fringe through her work over the past eight years at almost 50 shows - including shooting vintage Hollywood portraits for Sunset Boulevard - her images providing some of the backdrops in the show itself. Her latest project is Calendar Girls. Her work includes headshots, publicity shoots, rehearsals and performances and is used for the cast, in posters, social media, programmes and advertising. Cat left us with some useful tips - build trust with the actors, know the play, take lots of shots and of everyone (but only release the good ones), have a consistent look, send out quick edits early. See her website cathumphries.wordpress.com for more images. Images by and © Cat Humphries

After the talk Laurence Leng reminded us that he is looking for help with photographs at a special musical tribute performance on 30 October (see attachment and previous emails). If you would like to help with taking backstage and performance photos (Mike Tagg is hoping to be there) then please reply to the newsletter ASAP and we will forward to Laurence. Thank you.
