

Macro (a closer look at the past week)

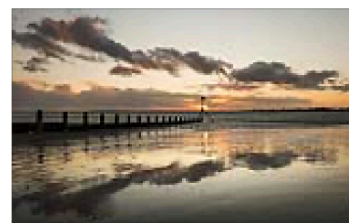

On Wednesday at the Hut the results of the July monthly set subject competition (alphabet subject E) were presented and images discussed and critiqued. Congratulations to the top 3 images. Results attached to email.

1 Eiffel Tower by Phil O'Dell

2 Eight by Steve Peel

3 East Head by Steve Yates

Check out (and try) the new website feature launched this week for Discussion Boards supporting our Interest/Learning/Discussion Groups. Full details in the email circulated by Ian Woods earlier this week.

The full season's core programme is now available on website (see link in footer) - current copy is attached to the email but it's good practice to check the website for the latest version as updates do happen throughout the season.

Sensor Spot - an occasional item on some "technical" aspect of photography - for those that may be interested. Digital cameras now come with many features and buttons, settings and menus - and these can often be configurable by the photographer. It's important to get to know your menus and where you can change things quickly and safely - it can be frustrating when some settings depend on others and appear to be locked or greyed-out or even made invisible in menus.

Make sure you can easily reset your settings to your own preferred default set-up - whether you like aperture/shutter priority etc. Some camera enable you to define "custom modes" - set one of these to your default set-up for a quick reset. It's tempting to reconfigure buttons but it's easy to forget your changes - or use the wrong button inadvertently. If you don't use a button (even when set to manufacturer's default) consider disabling the button completely to avoid accidents. May be better/faster/safer to use quick menus or custom menus than buttons.

Mid to Long Range Zoom (a look at what's coming up in the next few weeks)
